

IN CONTROL

The official e-newsletter of the Journal of Dynamic Systems, Measurement & Control

Note from the Technical Editor:

Welcome to In Control. The purpose of this quarterly newsletter is to highlight the latest publications and events associated with the ASME Journal of Dynamic Systems, Measurement, and Control (JDSM&C).

In Control is designed to keep you informed of the latest research results and breaking news in our field. Here you will find a table of contents of the latest issue of JDSM&C, an updated list of the most cited articles from the past two years and links to related conferences and workshops. The article titles link to the abstract pages on the ASME Digital Library. Full text is available with a subscription.

Thank you for taking time to read In Control, please feel free to send me any feedback that can improve our newsletter by clicking here.

Sincerely,

Karl Hedrick, PhD

About The ASME Journal of Dynamic Systems, Measurement & Control

The ASME Journal of Dynamic Systems, Measurement and Control is a leading international resource for influential, original peer-reviewed R&D that advances modeling and control of dynamic mechanical systems. Its main goal is to present research studies that set the standard for transforming ideas and methods from fields such as adaptive and optimal control, nonlinear systems and control into practice, that drive the evolution of technology in energy, manufacturing, aerospace, robotics, transportation and bio-medical systems.
